Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 04 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Some rain in southeast today but many areas fine.

Today:
Cloudy in the east and southeast with some rain, perhaps heavy at times mainly in the far southeast. Sunny spells elsewhere, particularly Wales, west and north England. Warm in sunshine. The odd shower for Northern Ireland and west Scotland.

Tonight:
Cloudy in east and southeast England with some rain. Northern Ireland and west Scotland also cloudy with a little rain. Clear spells between and chilly for some with fog patches.

Saturday:
Fine and dry for most with sunny spells, best of these over central England. Cloudier over Northern Ireland, west and north Scotland with some rain or showers. Warm in sunshine.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Generally fine by night with some fog patches. By day most locations will be dry and fine with just a few well-scattered showers, and generally feeling warm or very warm.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.